I was born and raised on the mean streets of Watertown, Wisconsin. It was there that I spent my days drawing, painting, and making cool stuff out of whatever I could find. Fast forward 24-or-so-years, and you will find me graduated from the Milwaukee Institute of Art & Design with a BFA in Graphic Design.

After graduation, I embarked on my career as a manipulator of creative ideas and platform-agnostic storytelling. I quickly moved up the creative ladder as a discipline leader in the office and the many classrooms I taught in.

I showed the Midwest what it meant to push the boundaries of advertising by leading the charge in innovations and interactivity. I became a mad scientist in the creative community, and like any mad scientist, I wanted to take over the world. New York seemed to be the best vantage point for my diabolical plan.

I continue to teach at the School of Visual Arts and Parsons and have worked as a Creative Director with the best of the best at WDDG, AKQA, The Chopping Block, Atmosphere Proximity, CKSK, and Publicis Sapient. As a result, I racked up quite a few awards: FWA Awards, Addys, Webbys, Emmys, Oscar, W3s, and Communicator Awards. As my work became more recognized, my opportunities became plentiful.

I'm madder and more sciencey than I ever have been. While I haven't conquered the world yet, I'll never stop trying.
